

Marissa

The Food for Thought project is all about people donating food to the people who can't afford it. Food for Thought started in April, 2011. The founders of Food for Thought are Shari, Charlie Nunez, Kim, and Bert Bowdet. The Food for Thought project is you sign up then they bring you a reusable bag. Then you fill up the bag and they pick it up every Saturday. Then they bring it to the local food pantries. The containers the food can be in are bags, boxes, jars, bottles, and cans. This is a good project because they are giving their time to collect all the food.